Comparison of Salaries.

The compensation of public officers in this State is unreasonably low, when compared with those paid elsewhere on this coast. In California, they are more than twice as much for the same sort of duties. In British Columbia, they have been recently fixed as follows: Governor, with suitable residence, properly furnished, $15,000, with a further allowance of $2,500 for private Secretary, etc.; Judge of Supreme Court, $6,000; Secretary of Colony, $4,000; Attorney General with private practice, $2,500; Land Commissioner and Surveyor General, 4,000; Collector of Customs, $3,250; and other officers in similar ratio.

While we are not in favor of exorbitant salaries, and will not pretend that those fixed by our Constitution may not be equivalent for the services rendered by our public officers, we think it cannot be denied that as the State increases in wealth, and the public labors of its officials are magnified, their compensation ought also be made greater. This was put at the lowest rate possible, to avoid objection to the Constitution on the ground of high salaries, but it cannot be expected that any man fit to be Governor will deem $1,500 a just and fitting reward for the performance of Executive duties, or that competent lawyers will be willing for $2,000 to give up private business and labor industriously for the public, paying out of this sum their own traveling expenses, which necessarily must amount to a considerable sum. Small pay is a temptation and an excuse for corruption and dishonesty. Men and their families must live, and if the public exacts their service and does not make adequate compensation, one of two things will be sure to happen—good men will resign official positions, or weak and wicked men who fill them will by indirect and dishonorable means get what they can, even though public interests and private rights are basely sacrificed. The matter deserves consideration, before the mischief possible, becomes actual.

SLAVERY ABOVE THE CONSTITUTION.—While Democrats are incessantly invoking the power of the Constitution in behalf of the rebellion and slavery, it may be well to remind them how closely they are following the example of the pro-slavery organs whiob incited the war. The Richmond Enquirer in 1856, when Buchanan was a candidate, said:

> "Democrats of the South in the present campaign rely on the old grounds of defence and not for slavery: for they seek not merely to retain it where it is, but to extend it into regions where it is unknown. Much less can they rely on the mere constitutional guarantees of slavery, for such reliance is pregnant with the admission that slavery is wrong, and but for the Constitution should be abolished."

According to this, slavery was above the Constitution: so it is, according to the doctrines of Democrats in this day, and the Union and all its life and treasure must go for nothing so that the right to make men and women chattels may be preserved. The Union party, on the other hand, proposes to deal with slavery just as it does with every other weapon and cause of rebellion. It will strike it down and crush it forever out of sight, as a great agency of treason and wickedness, and if possible will make its future influence and existence impossible, so that a land, consecrated to freedom, shall never again be overflowed with blood, because slavery has lost its supreme political control.

KICKED OUT OF COURT.—The Supreme Court of the United States, to which an appeal was taken in the matter of Vallandigham, has dismissed the case, and thus left the rebel martyr under the ban of the Government, a traitor outlaw. He can stay in Canada, where the British flag protects him, or he can go back to the South—the prison limits of his sentence—where his peculiar patriotism is popular and is appreciated. We hardly know which is the most appropriate place for him. Among the rebels, he was hailed as a brother traitor, who had been faithful to their interests, doing their word, and ready to do more if he could. So they treated him with distinguished consideration and furnished him a passage to the Queen's dominions, where he is sheltered, not because he is loyal to his country, but because he is an enemy to the Union. Are men who justify him—who could have voted for him rather than an abolitionist, whit better than he is? Let the patriots of Oregon answer.

NATIONAL UNION CONVENTION.—We learn by our dispatches this morning, that the Executive Committee have fixed upon Baltimore, and the 7th of June next, as the place and time for the National Convention to nominate candidates for President and Vice-President. The call invites the action of all "who are for maintaining the Union, the supremacy of the Constitution, and the complete suppression of the existing rebellion, with the cause there of, by a vigorous prosecution of the war by all right and effectual means." The number of delegates is to be for each State twice its number of votes for President, so that Oregon will be entitled to six representatives in the convention.

GEN. WRIGHT.—Our readers are aware that charges against the loyalty of the brave and gallant officer who commands the Pacific Department, have been recently made in the Legislature of California. True, they originated with, and have been repeated, in part at least, by men, who, since the war began, opposed the Administration until they found that they were getting on the unpopular side, and now, for policy's sake becoming zealous for the Union, they abuse every man who does not acknowledge them as leaders. So they assailed Gen. Wright, and he has written an admirable letter which was thus introduced to the attention of the California Legislature:

> Mr. Wood rose to a question of privilege, in relation to remarks made some time since in the Assembly, casting censure upon Gen. Wright, the commander of this Military Department. He had this morning received a communication from Gen. Wright on the subject, and he had also made some inquiries; and found from those who had the best opportunities of knowing that the officers referred to were men of the most unquestionable loyalty. He referred especially to Assistant Adjutant General Drum. He asked that, in justice to the parties against whom doubts had been insinuated, the communication be read and spread upon the minutes.
> The Clerk read as follows:
> HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE PACIFIC, SACRAMENTO, Feb. 15, 1864.
> SIR: In the debate in the Assembly, a few days since, I observe that my name, as well as that of my Adjutant-General, Colonel Drum, has been mentioned in connection with the resolution then under consideration. I have served nearly twelve years on this coast, a portion of the time in command of the District and Department of Oregon, and for the past two and a half years in command of the Department of the Pacific, and this is the first time that my loyalty or devotion to the Union has ever been called in question. My Department is of vast dimensions, extending from the British Possessions in the north to the borders of the Republic of Mexico in the south, and from the Pacific Ocean on the west to the Rocky Mountains, including the great States of California and Oregon, with the Territories of Washington, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, and a portion of Arizona—a million of square miles, with about sixty military stations, some of them more than two thousand miles apart. To those unacquainted with the routine of military duties, it is difficult to impress the fact that it requires the most untiring labor and watchfulness to keep all these posts supplied and to distribute the thousand troops over such an extent of country so as to afford protection for remote settlers against hostile Indians and at the same time to be prepared to meet foes from without or traitors within. I certainly feel gratified that all my acts since I assumed command of this Department have received the most unqualified approval of my Government. Identified as I am with the people on this coast, I have labored most assiduously to preserve your quiet and peace. I point with pride to the present condition of affairs in this Department. I have not attempted to please all, but, guided by what I believed to be for the best interests of the country, I have pursued a course which thus far I have seen no cause to regret.
> As for Col. Drum and the other officers of my staff, their loyalty is too well established to be injured by faultfinding politicians. As for myself, I shall never stoop to defend my loyalty. I am not to be read out of the Union while I have served long in peace and in war; I have fought and bled under the old flag, and if I could harbor a thought, save for the honor of that flag, and the prosecution of this war until the rebellion is entirely crushed, the very green Mountains of my native State would rise up in judgment against me.
> Inclosed is a slip from the Oregon Intelligencer referring to an advertisement which was published from headquarters nine weeks since, and which was commented on in the Assembly debate.
> With great respect, your most obedient servant,
> E. S. WRIGHT.
> To Hon. Joseph Wood, Chairman of Military Committee, Assembly.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT VEERING AROUND IN KENTUCKY—ANTI-SLAVERY GAINING STRENGTH.—The anti-slavery infection is beginning to be felt in Kentucky. The Frankfort correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, writing December 14th, says:

> "It is astonishing what a change has come over the spirits of Kentuckians. A majority of Kentucky legislators upon the subject of slavery, within the past year or two. On Saturday last, Mr. Benton, the talented member from Kenton, made a speech in favor of the postponement of the Senatorial election, in which he said he would say to no man who was not for the integrity of the Union, without provisions or conditions—who was not for the Union, no matter what Mr. Lincoln might do, or what military authorities might do—who would not sustain the Government against the rebellion, even if the Government should sweep the last vestige of slavery from every nook and corner of every State in the nation.
> "Some years ago such a speech would have been drowned in hisses, and the utterer of such sentiments would have been hooted at on the streets, and insulted in the social circle, but not so now. Here and there a Copperhead may whisper, 'There goes an Abolitionist!' but the response will most likely be, 'What else?' All the leading men whom I see, whether legislators, judicial officers or private citizens, concur in the opinion that slavery is no longer a power in the nation, and that its days are numbered, even in this Commonwealth, where this Government (for its own reasons) will longest defend it. Some rejoice at the fact, others rejoice at it, but all acquiesce in its inevitability."

The remarks of Mr. Benton are only the beginning of a practical test of "free speech" in the Kentucky Capitol. Things will be said and done that will shock old fogyism like unto a galvanic battery, and the "peculiar institution" will have its nose tweaked many a time and oft. Alas for the good old days of gag, rail-ridings, tar-barrels, and coats of feathers. They departed from Kentucky with the legira of the chivalry, in their Southern search for their lost rights.

FEMALE CLERK'S AT WASHINGTON.—The correspondent of the Alta, in a news letter says:

> Under the present Administration, quite an innovation has been introduced into some of the Departments, particularly the Treasury. I allude to the employment of women as clerks. Not that I would insinuate for a moment that the ladies are an innovation; gallantry forbid! But it cannot fail to impress one as something odd (to use a Cockney phrase) on entering the different bureaus to see under the official mahogany, the delicate pruncilla and trimoline accompaniments, instead of boots and doeskins.
> The salaries paid to females vary from six hundred to one thousand dollars per annum, and although less than the lowest price paid to the other sex, they seem to be looked to as a "good thing" by the ladies, and to be sought for with so much avidity and pertinacity that it is said the applications have become more annoying to the Heads of Department, than all the rest put together, and that on this account it is almost regretted that the experiment was ever tried. As a general thing, apartments are devoted exclusively to their occupation; but not always. Where, however, this is not the case, it is presumed that the discretion is exercised, so as not to bring youth and beauty into positions where they may serve to distract attention from clerical duties. Among the ladies occupying a desk at this time, is the celebrated Mrs. Swisshelm, formerly editress, lecturer, social reformer, etc."

NO INFLUENCE.—J. G. Baldwin, ex-Judge of the Supreme Court, returned recently to California from a visit to the East. He relates to his friends in private the result of his efforts at Washington to obtain a pass to go South, and the story is too good to withhold from the public. He desired to visit his father, who resides somewhere in the Dixie portion of Virginia. As his father was quite advanced in years and had the reputation of being a Union man, and as the Judge was well acquainted with Halleck and others, high in authority at Washington, he anticipated no difficulty in obtaining permission to pass the lines. He first applied to Halleck, and then to Stanton, but his request was denied by each. They had been deceived so often that they were inexorable and immovable. The Judge concluded to make one more effort, and called on the President. Uncle Abe received him cordially, and he made his business known. "You had better call on Halleck," suggested the President." "I have," said the Judge, "but he refused to grant my request. "Suppose you call on Stanton" added the President. "I have," said Baldwin, "but he also refused." "Well," said Uncle Abe, in his own peculiar style, "I am very sorry, but the fact is I can do nothing for you; I have not a bit of influence with this Administration"—Sac. Union.

An active movement, says the Sacramento Bee, appears to be on foot throughout California, among the Fenian Brotherhood, an organization of men of Irish birth, the object of which is to secure the independence of Ireland. They are holding meetings in all the principal towns of the State, raising money, organizing, etc. If they are as active elsewhere, as in California, they will become formidable.

Dates to February 23d.

All the Meat in Richmond served for Longstreet's Army.

National Union Convention to meet at Baltimore, June 7th.

Rebels about to force a Battle at Bull Run.

Work on Rebel Iron-Clads suspended.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21st.—Prominent citizens of Virginia, recently arrived from Richmond, say the rebels are preparing to attempt to drive the Army of the Potomac back on Washington by demonstrations along the Blue Ridge and if possible to force a battle at Bull Run.

The rebels have almost entirely suspended work on their iron-clads. Three are completed at Charleston and one is in process of construction. There is only one iron-clad in James river. One at Richmond is nearly completed but the guns have been removed to the fortifications of Charleston.

Rebel deserters state that Fitz Hugh Lee's cavalry has been disbanded until the 17th March, in consequence of the scarcity of forage. Rebel cavalry are scattered through the country in Lee's rear to procure forage until spring.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Thos. Wilton's tobacco factory on Sedgwick street was burned on Saturday night, 20th. Loss, $75,000—partly insured.

The Times Washington special dispatch says:—Deserters continue to come in from Louisiana regiments. Nearly the whole of the 14th Louisiana regiment deserted last month.

The Tribune's special says: The Virginia Convention will reassemble on the 22d. No doubt the State will be declared free. Upon the subject of the states of rebels who lay down their arms, there is a difference of opinion. A proposition that they be debarred from the rights of citizenship for five years has been favorably regarded.

Thirty-three of the 100 Union officers arrived safely: 25 were re-captured, leaving 11 to be accounted for.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Washington dispatches say there were 11 blockade runners on the lower Potomac with a large amount of goods and a rebel mail.

The Herald's Texas letter says: Deserters report Magruder's forces at 30,000. Cranky creek has been occupied and 5,000 men can be concentrated there in two days.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 21.—Official information from Gen. Dodge was received at Gen. Logan's Headquarters to-day, to the effect that the rebels, supposed to be Roddy's command, attempted to cross the Tennessee river at three different points, but were driven back by Dodge's troops. Our loss is slight.

There are rumors here that Sherman has fought with Polk near Brandon, Miss., whipped him, and taken 120 prisoners.

The court martial in the case of Crittenden and McCook will adjourn to-morrow. Outsiders say both Generals will be vindicated.

Col. Dillard, of the 34th Kentucky, who arrived from Cumberland Gap last night, says that Longstreet after crossing the Holston river to the north side, returned again, destroying his pontoon bridges in his precipitate retreat. Officers from the front report all quiet at Chattanooga and Knoxville.

PORTLAND, MAINE, Feb. 23.—The Bohemian, from Liverpool struck a rock four miles outside Cape Elizabeth last evening and sunk two miles from shore. All the cabin passengers saved. About 200 steerage passengers were on board. Dam swamped along side. Cargo valued at one million dollars. The account is mostly Canadian. Among names of steerage passengers was that of Martin, wife and children, of California. It is not known if any of them are saved or not. Three mail bags saved; one of them for California. It is thought but few passengers were lost, except those in boats. Some of them perished.

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—Vessels arrived bring news from Capetown, Africa, Dec. 26th. They state that the privateer Tuscarora was seized by British authorities for violation of neutrality laws in landing parties and her cargo on the coast.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Special dispatches say District Court, eastern district of Virginia, at Norfolk, Feb. 20th, decided condemnation of property under confiscation law. Decrees cover large amount of property.

Maryland Convention instructed the delegates to the National Convention to vote for Lincoln first, and only person for President.

Within a few weeks the Secretary of the Navy has decided to add another fleet to the Navy. Preparations have been made to construct the new vessels entirely of iron. They are not intended to participate in actual battle.

FORTRESS MONROE, Feb. 23.—Dispatches announce the arrival of six more prisoners. Richmond papers say forty-eight men were recaptured, leaving eleven still out.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 23.—Slave States Emancipation Convention was largely attended by delegates from Missouri, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky. Two or three hundred delegates present. Nothing was done yesterday except the appointment of Committees on resolutions and permanent organization. During the afternoon a circular letter, signed by S. C. Homery, Chairman of the National Committee, was distributed among the members declaring that were resolution desirable it is politically impossible against union of influences which would oppose him that should he be re-elected his manifest tendency towards compromises and temporary exhibition would become stronger second term by proclamations.

[A part of the above paragraph is unintelligible to us; however, we publish it as received.—ED.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Newbern letter of Feb 18th says rebels are said to be at Kingston. Force estimated at 25,000.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23.—Washington letters say: From near Charleston advices report 10,000 troops had been sent by rebels to Tallahassee, Fla., to dispute advance of our forces on that place. Part of those troops it is said, have been sent from Georgia and Beauregard's army.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—A special dispatch to the Herald, dated Knoxville, Feb. 17th, says: Affairs at Knoxville for four days past have been threatening, but the enemy who appeared in force at Strawberry Plains, recrossed the river owing to freshets in the Holston. The enemy are now reported moving towards Georgia with their cavalry on the Murfreesville road and their infantry and passing near Smoky Mountain. There is no anticipation of an attack which may be made, however, after the river falls.

LATEST.

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN.

JACKSONVILLE, Feb 23,

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—A Knoxville telegram says: The rebels are in force at Strawberry Plains. They completed a pontoon bridge there and two brigades of infantry crossed; also, some cavalry, which had a skirmish yesterday with our cavalry six miles from here, and were driven back to the river. Gen. Hascall with a regiment of infantry and a battalion of cavalry encountered the rebel forces two miles out, killing seven and capturing nine. It is reported that reinforcements under Buckner have arrived but this is discredited at headquarters.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Several lady refugees have arrived from Richmond, via Fredericksburg. There is a report that the rebel authorities within the last month have seized all the meat in Richmond markets and forwarded it to Longstreet's army.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Special Washington dispatches to the Commercial say: Great interest is felt here in an interesting case as to the New Almaden quicksilver mines, which will come up to-morrow in the Supreme Court, when ex-Attorney-General Cushing and Black will argue the case in behalf of the Company. It is expected that several new legal issues will be presented to the Court.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The Committee of Conference on the Whisky Bill had a meeting to-day. It is understood the sliding scale has been adopted, with the following modifications: spirits distilled and sold, or distilled and removed for consumption from the 1st July to the 1st January 60 cents; after that, 70 cents; on distilled spirits imported until the 1st July, 40 cents; after 1st July and before the 1st January, 45 cents; after the 1st January 50 cents. The report of the Committee will probably be acted upon finally by both Houses to-morrow.

The Union National Committee met to-day at the residence of Senator Morgan, when, after consultation, the following call for la National Convention was unanimously adopted:

The undersigned, who by original appointments and subsequent delegations to fill vacancies, constitute the Executive Committee created by the National Convention held at Chicago on the 26th of May, 1863, call upon all qualified voters, who are for maintaining the Union, the supremacy of the Constitution, and the complete suppression of the existing rebellion with the cause thereof by a vigorous prosecution of the war by all right and effectual means, to send delegates to a Convention to meet at Baltimore on the 7th of June, 1864, for the purpose of nominating candidates for President and Vice President of the United States, each State being entitled to as many delegates as shall equal twice the number to which it is entitled in the Electoral College.

(Signed) EDWIN D. MORGAN,
Chairman Executive Committee.

The following resolution was also adopted:

Resolved, That while the Committee has not authority to decide whether Territories and Districts may be represented in the National Convention, they would nevertheless invite said Territories and Districts to send delegates subject to the decision of the convention in the premises.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Richmond papers have official dispatches to the War Department, dated the 20th, announcing that Sherman had arrived at Quitman on the Ohio and Mobile Railroad without opposition, but that he won't take Mobile without a desperate battle. His advance is without exception the boldest movement of the war. He has from twenty-five to thirty thousand men and moves along, evidently meditating no stop backwards.

Major General Scammon and staff had arrived at Richmond and were lodged in Libby prison. Fifty escaped Yankee officers have been returned to Libby prison.

The Enquirer of the 17th has the following dispatches:

Mobile, Feb. 15.—Meridian was evacuated yesterday—Government property saved.

Mobile, Feb. 16.—Gov. Watts issued a proclamation to citizens this morning, stating that Mobile would soon be attacked and exhorting non-combatants to leave.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—Private dispatches quote gold in New York yesterday at 140.

The Russian clipper ship Czarowitch has arrived from Sitka, with a cargo of general merchandize.

The steamer Panama from Crescent City, arrived this evening.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24.—The Eastern line being out of order east of Fort Kearney this morning, we have no later Eastern intelligence.

A courtezan named Mary B. Smith was this morning found dead in her bed with her throat cut from ear to ear. Jealousy is supposed to be the cause of the suicide. She was aged 32 years and is a native of Massachusetts.

The War Department has directed Gen. Wright to take military possession of the island of Santa Catalina for Government purposes. This action will require the immediate removal of all persons now on the island.

Upward of forty-five thousand jars of China wine have been seized and libelled by the revenue authorities for being in quantities less than fifteen gallons. The owners will contest the legality of the seizure.

Later views from China make no mention of the Alabama being blockaded in the port of Amoy.

Additional Eastern News.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The Herald's special dispatch says: The policy of extending the President's amnesty to Colonels is much talked of. Rebel prisoners and refugees state that this would cause whole regiments to desert.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The World's Nashville letter says: The army of Chattanooga is well stored with munitions of war. The roads in Georgia are improving. The writer thinks Gen. Logan, with the Fifteenth Army Corps, which moved from Huntsville, would strike for Rome, Georgia, to operate on Johnston's flank. Assuming that to be Logan's destination, Grant will march against Johnston with 80,000 men.

It is whispered among military men that there would soon be a raid into Ohio, that the pontoons referred to would be drawn overland to either New or Kanawha rivers, and would be floated down the Ohio, and that river crossed at two points—one column going by way of Barbersville and Ginduthe. It is rumored and expected that troops would arrive for concentration from both Eastern and Western rebel armies.

In regard to the above report, a correspondent says that rumors have been in circulation for some time past, of mysterious movements on the line of the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad.

It is probable that the Committee on Conference will agree on some plan similar to that of the Senate, in regard to the tax on whisky.

The gold bill of the Ways and Means Committee, will be extensively debated.

COLORED TROOPS IN NEW YORK.—On the evening before Thanksgiving the 2d Colored Regiment arrived in this city from Washington, and was accommodated with quarters at the Park Barracks, where they were supplied with substantial rations and received the same accommodations that are usually paid to white soldiers, white employees not objecting to wait upon them. The negro troops behaved remarkably well, and manifested those good-natured and playful traits of character that distinguish the race they represent—whistling, dancing, wrestling, and story telling—while they remained free from intoxication and its accompanying vices.

About two thirds of these men were formerly slaves in Delaware, Maryland and Virginia; a few of them are men whose hard work commanded four times as much pay as they receive in the service of the Government, and two or three of them are men who own considerable property. The stripes on the arms—differing from those they formerly received on their backs—of some of these negroes indicate that they are corporals and sergeants.

This regiment has the reputation of being under excellent drill. Gen. Casey remarked a short time before their departure that they were not surpassed for soldierly attributes by any regiment of similar opportunities in the armies of the United States.

Their powers of imitation, their habits of obedience, their love of display, and their pliant nature, furnish material that is easily moulded into military life. The recognition of their manhood by accepting their services, the good name won by their brethren in arms, have kindled their hearts with a wish to distinguish themselves in the field; indeed, they are inspired with the idea that they are commissioned by Providence to strike a blow for the redemption of their brothers and sisters in slavery.

With two or three exceptions, the officers of this regiment have been under fire in several engagements. They are gentlemen of culture and character, most of them being graduates of Dartmouth, Yale and Harvard. It was for killing an officer of this regiment that Dr. Wright was hanged in Norfolk a few months ago—Rev. Dr. Thomson of this city, has a son a lieutenant in this regiment. At Jersey City a Copperhead came up to Adjutant E. B. Tracy, and insulted him, because he was associated with negroes in the service of his country, and was promptly knocked down for his insolence.

This city, so recently the theatre of mob violence and outrage, in which hatred of the negro was the prevailing sentiment—this city, so long regarded as entirely free from the infusion of colored soldiers, and the only spot in America where it was even possible to raise an objection to their presence, has extended to them its hospitality. Nearly one thousand black men marched through the streets of New York, on a holiday, bivouacked in the City Hall Park, lodged in the barracks, performed guard duty, and appeared on parade without being insulted or even annoyed.

From early in the morning until late in the afternoon of Thanksgiving day, thousands of spectators swarmed in the Park, making all sorts of complimentary remarks respecting the black soldiers—"How happy they are," "What fine figures some of them have," "They are fully born to fight," "How soldierlike their bearing." "It will be found hard for the rebs to make prisoners of them," "I'll warrant they'll die like tigers." "What a pity they were not born at the time of the riot," &c. Who will now say the world does not move in the right direction?—N. Y. Independent.

STARVATION PARTIES IN RICHMOND.—A young lady in Richmond, writing to her friends in Baltimore, says that the gayeties of society in that city consist chiefly of what are called "starvation parties," at which people meet in each other's houses and have music and dancing, but nothing to eat or drink. The fair writer attends these parties twice a week, and she avers that they have a great deal of fun but no supper. She spoke of meeting a gentleman from England, whose name was Capt. Coffee, at a Starvation Party, and every time his name was pronounced it made her mouth water.

THE FLAG.—Gen. Banks has issued an order forbidding the inscribing, by merchants and others, their name and business on the national flag. He says it is an emblem of power and nationality, and must not be desecrated.

A MISSING MAN TURNED UP.—Our readers will remember that about fourteen months ago a sensation was excited by parties in this city, in apprehension of danger to a young man by the name of Smyth, who had very mysteriously disappeared from his boarding house. Efforts were made to find him for he was a "nice young man," and when last seen was trying to convert "greenbacks," to a considerable amount of which he was supposed to have, into coin, but all efforts were unavailing. He has at last "turned up," and arrived in Portland on the Couch, Saturday evening, in destitute circumstances that show him to be possessed of a penchant for "greenbacks." It appears that Mr Smyth, at the time he was lost, made his way to Bannock City, where he figured under the aliases of 'Smither' and Smythers." About a month ago he made his appearance at the Dalles where after "shelling" the hotels out of his board bills by means of fraudulent deposits of iron shavings instead of gold dust, he made a raid upon the Express office, and armed with a long handled spade, broke into a desk and captured a considerable addition to his finances, amounting to over $400 in legal tender notes. When he became as suddenly 'lost' to that place as he had been to this. This occurred the night of the 18th, he was suspected, and on the following Monday morning the order, Mr J S. Reynolds, started in pursuit of the reader, tracking him by the grub he had left along the route first to Vancouver, then to Sauvies Island then to Scappoose and finally to Astoria where he had taken passage for San Francisco, on the bark Fallenburg. He was arrested and admitted all knowledge of the robbery, but was admitted it, and tried the begging. He made one attempt to escape but being put in irons considered the matter philosophically. Three hundred and two dollars of the money was recovered with the wallet, as it was taken, and iron shavings which he had deposited with Captain Wiggin, of the bark. He proceed to the jail upon his arrival here, of Mr Reynolds.

TO CELEBRATE.—Mr R R Hawes, Superintendent of the California and Oregon Telegraph, arrived on the Senator yesterday. From him we learn it is almost certain that on Thursday we will have continuous communication by telegraph with the outside world. The completion of the line to Calapooia is an important work, and the successful operation would be worthy of a happy demonstration of our citizens. The fact that we have work, brought us near to the East and is, in all matters of news, no sufficient cause for rejoicing.

FROM THE CALIFORNIA STEAMER.—The Nevada left this port Saturday with on board 6,000 boxes of apples of cider, and an assortment of [illegible] mounting in all to a full round [illegible] ed away in treasure, the sum following:

|---|---|
| [illegible] & Co | $50 000 |
| [illegible] | 14 000 |
| [illegible] | 10 000 |

considerable amount which appears on her manifest.

a teacher in the Public School, correct version of the case of a reported in Friday's paper, not draw a pistol, but for fooling it the inevitable catastrophe was administered by the teacher. Symptoms of returning sense for the credit of our community, be the last case of the kind for others.

TO GO AS A HOG.—Capt Strang, of was asked if he could not take a cheaper rates than they now ask boat? He replied that he could rier as a hog, for one dollar him—he wouldn't go, as in thought he looked rather offered to take him as the price.

—The telegraph gets off the bobbin yarn. We say improvements have crossed and re Columbia river bar, with slight all the time since Dec. 17th.

ob 19th.—The bark Ishmaelina sailed river December 17th, returned to-day fell off the Bar 34 days, unable to rough weather.

—Capt Wolfe took a "jam" up gers and fought to the Cascades on G Hunt, on Saturday. Over were on board, besides 30 head of goes and the usual number of The boat was loaded early for the trip to-day, and the cry is come.

DENT.—Mr. Thessing, of Milwaukie, ely injured about the head, by falling a ledge of rock at Oregon City, on day, just before the departure of the He was coming down on the steamer Milwaukie, and after the accident came to city, and was taken to the Wharf House.

VESSELS FOR SEA.—By the officers of the H. Couch, which arrived Saturday evening, we learn that the Falkinburg left Astoria Friday morning. The Samuel Merrill was between Oak Point and Astoria, with a load and has probably kept on to sea. Those were in when the Couch left.

COWLES'S COURT.—John Brown was had rather loosely on "steamer day," and brought before the Recorder to answer to charge of being drunk and disorderly. was fined, and in default sent up for three C. Ferrell followed suit, and the two a happy pair.

OVER THE WATER.—The steamer Rival has been all out of the water, just below the city, undergo a thorough repairing. She is in a better condition than her owners suppose and when she is re launched will be as fast as ever she was.

WEATHER ITEMS.—Ice formed in this city on Saturday night, quarter of an inch thick, on the north side of dwellings. Cherry trees showed their first blossoms on Fires street on Saturday.

NARROW ESCAPE.—On Saturday while the steamer Onward was receiving freight at Fairfield, Mr Church the purser of the boat, was precipitated about twenty five feet down the bluff and escaped death almost miraculously. The gang is transferred to the foot of that locality by means of a shute some one hundred feet in length, very steep alongside of which a path for foot passengers. Mr Church was proceeding up the path when a sack of flour bounded over the shute and striking him violently upon the shoulder, threw him backwards with a summersault a distance of 25 feet and then continued its bounding course into the river. Mr Church was slightly hurt but was soon enabled to attend to his duties.

PUMPHREY'S LANDING.—Our readers may not be posted as to the exact locality of Pumphrey's Landing on the Cowlitz river. It is 25 miles above Monticello, and six miles below old Fort Coulit, a place that has heretofore been considered the head of "canoe navigation" and to run up for steamers, but the Fescue has demonstrated the fact that they can go there.

CONCERT.—The vocal and instrumental entertainment, to be given by the scholars of St Mary's Academy in this city on next Thursday evening, will commence at 7 o'clock precisely. Tickets $1 each.

THE STEAMER JULIA.—The friends of Capt Strang will be pleased to hear that he has taken command of the O S N Co's steamer Julia, and is again upon the wave.

THE DRAMA.—"Damon and Pythias," will be performed at Willamette Theatre. The afterpiece is entitled "Raising the Wind." We wish the new company success.

Mount Hood.

[A subscriber requests us to publish the following poem, by John R. Ridge, one of California's best poets. Originally it referred to Mount Shasta, but it is equally applicable to our own magnificent monument.]

Behold Mount Hood, where it sublimely stands
Imperial midst the lesser heights and, like
Some mighty, unimpassioned mind, companionless
And cold. The storms of heaven may beat in wrath
Against it, but it stands in unpolluted
Grandeur still, and from the rolling mists upheaves
Its tower of pride o'er purer than before.
The wintry showers and white-winged tempest leave
Their frozen tributes on its brow, and it
Doth make of them an everlasting crown.
Thus doth it day by day, and age by age,
Defy each stroke of time—still rising higher
Into Heaven!

Aspiring to the eagles' cloudless flight
No human foot hath stained its snowy side,
For human breath hath dimmed the icy mirror
Which it holds unto the moon and stars and sovereign sun.
We may not grow familiar with the secrets
Of its silvery top, whereon the Genius
Of that mountain builds his glorious throne!
Far-lifted in the boundless blue, he doth
Encircle, with his gaze supreme, the broad
Dominions of the West, that lie beneath
His feet, in pictures of sublime repose
No artist ever drew. He sees the tall
Gigantic hills arise in silentness
And peace, and, in the long review of distance,
Range themselves in order; and he sees the sunlight
Play upon the golden streams that thro' the valleys
Glide; he hears the music of the great and solemn
Sea, and overlooks the huge old western wall,
To view the birthplace of undying Melody!
Itself all light, save when some listless cloud
Doth form a while embrace its cold, forbidding
Form, that monarch-mountain casts its mighty
Shadow down upon the eternal peaks below,
Trait, like inferior minds to some great
Spirit, stand in strong contrasted littleness!
All through the long and summery month of our
Most tranquil year, it points its icy shaft
Of light, to catch the dazzling beams that fall
And roll, in floods of far magnificence,
Away from that lone vast Reflector in
The dome of Heaven.
Still watchful of the fertile
Vale, and undulating plains below, the grass
Grows greener in its shade, and evergreen bloom
The flowers. Strong Purifier! From its snowy
Side the breeze doth come unwearied to the peaceful
Homes of men, who shelter at its feet, and love
To gaze upon its honored form,—aye, standing
There, the guarantee of health and happiness!
Well might it win communion or blast
To loftier feelings, and to nobler thoughts—
The great material symbol of eternal
Things! And well, I ween, in after years, how,
In the middle of his fated track, the plowman,
In some sultry hour, will pause, and, wiping
From his brow the dirty sweat, with reverence
Gaze upon that hoary peak; the herdsman
Oft will rein his charger in the plain, and drink
Into his inmost soul the calm sublimity;
And little children, playing on the green, shall
Cease their sports, and turning to that mountain
Old, shall of their mother ask: "Who made it?"
And she shall answer: "God!"

The Maid of the Mill.

(Concluded.)

"Confound thee," he cried, applying the direst epithets of which the free speaking Teutonic languages are so copious, "open the door, or I'll break it in on ye."

"If you can you may;" was all the noble girl replied. "God is greater than you, and in Him I put my trust."

"Cut the brat's throat!" roared the imprisoned ruffian above; "that will bring her to reason."

Stout hearted as poor Hannchen was, she quailed at this cruel suggestion. For a moment her resolution wavered; but it was only for a moment. She saw her own death was certain if she admitted the assailant, and she knew that her master would be robbed. She had no reason to hope that the life of the infant would be spared by her compliance. It was to risk all against nothing. Like a dissolute girl, she consequently held fast in her resolve to abide as she was while life remained, or until assistance should rescue her.

"Ad ye open not the door," shouted the villain from without, accompanying his words with the vilest abuse and the fiercest imprecations, "I'll hack this whelp's limbs to pieces with my knife, and then burn the mill over your head. 'Twill be a merry blaze, I trow."

"I put my trust in God," replied the dauntless girl; "never shall ye set your foot within these walls whilst I have life to prevent ye."

The ruffian laid the infant for a moment on the sward as he sought for combustibles wherewith to execute his latter threat. In the search he espied perhaps the only possible clandestine entrance to the building. It was a large aperture in the wall, communicating with the great wheel and the machinery of the mill, and was a point entirely unprotected, for the reason that the simple occupants had never supposed it feasible for any one to seek admission through such a dangerous inlet. Elated with his discovery, the ruffian returned to the infant, and, tying the hands and feet of the child, threw it on the ground, even as a butcher will fling a lamb destined for slaughter, to await his time for slaying. He then stole back to the aperture, by which he hoped to effect an entrance. All this was unseen by the dauntless girl within. In the meanwhile her mind was busied with a thousand cogitations. She clearly perceived that no means would be left untried to effect an entrance, and she knew that on the exclusion of her foe depended her own existence. A thought struck her.

"It is Sunday," she said to herself; "the mill never works on the Sabbath; suppose I set the mill agoing now? It can be seen afar off, and haply my master, or some of his neighbors, wondering at the sight, may haste to know the cause. A lucky thought," she exclaimed; "'tis God sent it to me."

No sooner said than done. Being all her accustomed to mill gear it was but the work of a moment for her to set the machinery in motion. A brisk breeze sprung up, as it were by special interposition of Providence, at once setting the sails flying. The arms of the huge engine whirled around with fearful rapidity; the great wheel slowly revolved on its axles, the smaller gear turned and creaked and groaned, according as they came into action—the mill was in full operation. It was in that very instant that the ruffian Diether had succeeded in squeezing himself through the aperture in the wall, and getting safely lodged in the interior of the great drum wheel. His dismay, however, was indescribable, when he began to be whirled about with its rotation. He found that his efforts to put a stop to the fearful machinery which set it in motion, to extricate himself from his perilous situation were fruitless. His cries were most appalling; his shrieks were truly fearful; his curses and imprecations were horrible to hear. Hannchen hastened to the spot, and saw him caught, like a reptile as he was, in his own toils. It need not to be added that she did not release him. She knew that he would be more frightened than hurt, if he kept within the prison; and she knew also that unless he attempted to escape, there was no danger of his pulling out of it, even though he should use his formidable and inanimate all the while. In the meantime, the wheel went round, and round with its steady and unceasing motion; and round and round went the ruffian along with it, steadily and unceasingly, too. In vain did he promise the stout-hearted girl to work her no harm; in vain did he implore her to take pity on his helpless condition; in vain did he pray to all the powers of heaven, and adjure all the powers of hell to his aid. She would not hear or heed him; and unheard and unheeded of them likewise, muttering curses he whirled round and round in the untiring wheel, until, at last, feeling and perception failed him, and he saw and heard no more. He fell senseless on the bottom of the engine, but even thus his inanimate body continued to be whirled round and round, as before; the brave girl not daring to trust in appearances in connection with such a villain, and being therefore afraid to suspend the working of the machinery, or to stop the mill gear and tackle from running at their full speed.

A loud knocking at the door was shortly after heard, and she hastened thither. It was her master and his family, accompanied by several of their neighbors. The unaccustomed appearance of the mill sails in full swing on Sunday, had, as she anticipated, attracted their attention, and they had hastened home from church for the purpose of ascertaining the cause of the phenomenon. The father bore his little boy in his arms; he had cut the cords wherewith the child was tied, but he was unable to obtain an account of the extraordinary circumstances that had occurred from the affrighted innocent. Hannchen, in a few words, told all; and then the spirit which had sustained her for so long and so well while the emergency lasted, forsook her at once as it passed away. She fell senseless into the arms of the miller's eldest son, and was with difficulty recovered. The machinery of the mill was at once stopped, and the inanimate ruffian dragged from the great wheel. The other ruffian was brought down from his prison. Both were then bound, and sent off to Bonn under strong escort, and, in due course, came under the hands of the executioner.

It was not long till Hannchen became a bride. The bridegroom was the miller's son, who had loved her long and well, but with a passion previously unrequited. They lived thenceforth happily together for many years, and died at a good old age, surrounded by a flourishing family. To the latest hour of her life, this brave-hearted woman would shudder as she told the tale of her danger and her deliverance.

A Scene.—Hobbs, of the Genesseo Republic, thus describes the following sleighing scene which occurred on the streets of that enterprising "burg." We like to see some sleigh-riding people tip over; it pleases us to see them sloshed out—to have them gently spilled don't bring tears to our eyes, nor a regret from our vital parts. It is jolly to see a certain class go over. For instance, yesterday a team came along Main street; the cutter was a good one; the horse was as smooth as an otter—head and tail elevated, nostrils wide open—stepped loftily and gingerly; the feller was dressed in the best of broadcloth, patent leathers, buffalo skin collar and cap; the bright red ribbons were wound around his hands, clean up to his elbows; an ivory-handled bow-whip sat jauntily in the socket; the gal was a good 'un, dressed a la mode; the tails to her cap were of more than ordinary length; she smiled disdainfully upon us poor pedestrians. Lal you couldn't touch her with a ten-foot pole. Well they were coming down Main street at the rate of several knots an hour; they felt good; their look at each other said as plainly as look could, "Don't we take the rag off the best of 'em slightually?" With unchecked speed they approached the corner of Main and State streets; they turned; the cutter slewed—it slewed muchly—it slewed clear round—and the next thing we saw was two pair of pedal extremities sticking up stiffly out of a large snow drift near the town pump, and a horse and cutter making tracks for 'Limerick' at lightning speed. That pair of balmorals didn't cut a very handsome figure sticking out of the snow-drift; there was a great display of ruffled linen; skeleton was a little too conspicuous. On the other hand, patent leathers were trying to wiggle; they couldn't wiggle to any great extent; the snow was too much for them. These beauties had ample time for cool reflection; what the character of their reflections was, we don't know. A cool beaver soon extricated the balmorals and patent leathers from their unpleasant position, and from the saucy observations of lawless south, and we haven't heard of the pair since.

Good enough for them though.

Humors of the Rebellion.—A correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch proposes that Jeff Davis be "prayed for," and suggests the propriety of "beseeching the Father of all wisdom to mercifully bestow upon him the strength of mind and of soul, the meekness of spirit, and the tenderness of heart which will enable him to meet his arduous trials less in confidence in his own strength than in that of his Maker, and that forgiving, humble temper, which shall induce him no longer to reject the counsel and assistance of the wisest men of the nation."

A private letter from an officer in Grant's army relates an incident among the rebel prisoners: "A big lot of grayhacks were brought in and halted right in front of where I stay. I went to the door and heard the different squads hallooing for their regiments: 'Where is the Thirty-fourth Alabama?' 'Is the Tenth Georgia here?' 'Is there any South Carolina regiment in that crowd?' The last question was politely answered by a big grayback: 'D—n your South Carolina regiment; if it hadn't been for you we wouldn't be here.'"

Another of his stories is of an old lady, at whose house Bragg had his headquarters. She said: "Before you all came up here, I asked General Bragg—'What are you going to do with me, General?' He says to me, 'Lord! Madam, the Yankees will never dare to come here.' And," she added with a blubber, "it was not fifteen minutes till you were all around!"

This reminds us of a story told by Colonel Kinsman, of Gen. Butler's staff, of one of his negro guides, who said, to the great amusement of the troops: "Master said you were whipped every time; but you comed nearer and nearer, and here you be."

The Boston Traveller of January 6th, says: "They say that General Grant doesn't wish to become President. No more did General Taylor; but the people made him their Chief Magistrate, and they will do the same by General Grant, you may believe. When a man has got to a position in which he can refuse the Presidency without exciting ridicule, be assured that he is mighty near to the White House, a building easily entered by gentlemen who never showed the white feather."

NO ALCOHOL OR DWI

They will cure the above diseases nine-tenths of all cases.

INDUCED by the extraordinary cures of Hoofland's German Bitters, many of ignorant Quacks are now daily imposing upon suffering humanity by attempting to palm off upon the unsuspecting various compounds, under the name of Bitters, which are not only worthless, but actually injurious to health. Be sure and ask for Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by DR. C. M. JACKSON, and do not be persuaded to purchase any other Bitters that may be recommended to you, as I do not manufacture any other Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable quantity of worthless preparations that flood the country, purporting to be Bitters, put up in similar style to mine, with variously changed names, all of which are got up expressly to take advantage of the reputation my Bitters have obtained in order to palm their vile compounds upon the unsuspecting and confiding.

Hoofland's German Bitters

Are not a new and untried remedy, but have been before the public for the space of fifteen years, during which time they have performed many wonderful cures, and have established for themselves a reputation and sale unequalled by any other medicine in the country. The proprietors have the most reliable and indisputable evidence in their possession of the above fact, which they are prepared to substantiate to the satisfaction of any person disposed to call upon them, or address them on the subject.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, MERCHANTS, AND PUBLIC MEN,

Testifying of their own personal experience and observation of the effects of Hoofland's German Bitters in their own families and neighborhoods, are requested to be published by the proprietors, and may be relied on as containing the strictest truth.

Do you want a good appetite?
Do you want strength?
Do you want to feel cheerful?
Do you want to enjoy life?
Do you want to be free from pain?
Do you want energy?
Do you want to be happy?
Do you want a clear head?
If so, use Hoofland's German Bitters.

From Rev. J. X. Ray, Pastor of Green Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Philadelphia.

Although I do not usually recommend Medicines, I deem it my duty to make an exception in favor of Hoofland's German Bitters. I have used them in my family, and have found them an excellent remedy for Dyspepsia and Debility, and other diseases originating from a disordered state of the Stomach or Liver. Many of my friends have used them with the most beneficial results, and concur with me in recommending them to the public. They may be had of Dr. Jackson, at his Depot, No. 418 Arch street, below Fourth, in this city.

Messrs. Jones & Evans—Gentlemen: I have used Hoofland's German Bitters in my practice, and have found them a valuable tonic, useful in many cases of debility of the digestive organs. Yours, with respect,

J. DICKSON BRUCE, M. D.,
Professor of Materia Medica in the Medical College of Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Dec. 1, 1852.

Hoofland's German Bitters

Are entirely vegetable, and contain no alcohol in their composition, the purity of the ingredients being warranted by the proprietor, who has the most undoubted proofs that they have been the means of restoring to health many who have been given up by their friends as beyond the reach of medicine. Many of the most respectable citizens of Philadelphia can be referred to, who will testify to the above facts.

Beware of Counterfeits.
